Flynn Asks U. S. To Operate Kearny Ship Yards

CIO Leader Says Government Must Act To Speed Up Defense Program

Navy Official Warns That Steps Must Be Taken if Strike Is Not Settled Quickly

KEARNY, N. J., Aug. 8 (AP)— Peter Flynn, vice president of a CIO union, declared tonight that the federal government should take over the strikebound yards of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company "and operate them in the interests of national defense."

Flynn issued a statement at Jersey City headquarters of Local 16, industrial unit of the Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, which set forth:

Germany Plans Long-Term Drive To Replace Ill-Fated Blitzkrieg

Forced To Revamp Russian Campaign and Maps New Moves for Capture of Principal Cities

BERN, SWITZERLAND, Aug. 8 (AP)—Information reaching Bern from foreign military quarters in Berlin indicated tonight that the German high command was forced to revamp its Russian campaign to a long-term basis July 15 when it became evident that blitzkrieg plans would fail.

This information was that Germany originally had planned to occupy the Ukraine and take Leningrad within three weeks, then seize Moscow and reach Astrakhan, on the Caspian Sea, 1,700 miles east of Berlin, by the end of August.

The new timetable calls for capture of Leningrad and Moscow and an advance to the Caucasus by the end of September, the military sources said. If the Russian army is still in existence the Germans would pursue it toward the Ural mountains and then settle down on a defensive line.

Dies Denounces Leon Henderson As Communistic

Says He Wouldn't Have Price Control Head for Dog Catcher

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—While Leon Henderson was advocating the administration's price-control bill today before a congressional committee as a weapon of democracy, he was denounced on the House floor by Rep. Dies (D-Tex.) as having been a member of "five Communist-controlled organizations."

"I wouldn't put him in charge of dog catchers," Dies shouted. "The time has come to speak frankly."

Dies did not mention Henderson by name on the House floor, merely saying he was referring to a man who was about to be placed in charge of all price-fixing. Off the floor, however, he told newsmen he meant Henderson, who is head of the Office of Price Administration.

16,000 Workers Idle

Sixteen thousand workers have been made idle by the strike, which became effective at 11 p. m. (EST) Wednesday and has halted vital defense production on naval and merchant ship construction at the sprawling shipyard.

The company held defense orders totaling $493,000,000.

The union has demanded a closed shop clause in a proposed work

Ore Train Derailment Blocks Traffic Near Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Aug. 8 (AP)—A heavily-loaded ore train was wrecked in the Bay View freight yards of the Pennsylvania railroad today, killing an engineer and blocking traffic between Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The victim was Frank C. Weinstock, of Baltimore, engineer of the second locomotive pulling the train.

The fireman, S. J. Dexter, leaped to safety. Other trainmen also escaped injury.

Crews worked with acetylene torches for more than four hours to reach Weinstock's body.

The wreck occurred with a 116-car train, bound from Erie, Pa., to the Sparrows Point steel mills, attempted to negotiate a switch in the yards.

The leading locomotive had passed through the switch when the coupling between it and the second engine separated, railroad officials said. Air brakes were applied automatically through the rest of the train and this shock, officials said, apparently caused the accident.

Seven ore cars and the tender piled up behind the overturned locomotive, they added.

A welder, George Henderson of Baltimore, was injured while working with the wrecking crew. A falling rail crushed his right foot.

Tanker Explodes On River Rouge; Eight Injured

All-Steel Ship with 15,000
Barrels of Gas Aboard
Badly Damaged

DETROIT, Aug. 8 (AP) — The Transiter, 180-foot all-steel tanker of the Transit Tankers and Terminals Ltd., Montreal, with 15,000 barrels of gasoline aboard, exploded and burst into flames tonight on River Rouge.

The ship docked here last night and loaded the gasoline today at the docks of the Joy Oil Company.

Detroit detectives investigating the explosion said there were seventeen persons aboard, all Canadians and that all had been accounted for except two, including the wife of the captain, Mrs. Alicia Tremblay, of Quebec.

Sixty injured crewmen were taken to the Delray General Hospital where Francis Deschman, Quebec, and Edward Pariseau, Montreal, were said to have severe burns.

Describes Explosion

Bernard Couture, member of the crew, said: "It was just after dinner when it exploded. I was standing in the middle of the ship. All of a sudden there was an explosion and a big flame in the middle of the ship. Then things happened so fast none of us knew what was going on."

Walter Senecal, tender of a high-way bridge the tanker cleared shortly before it burst into flames said: "There was a rumble and a terrific blast. Then flames shot from the ship and I saw some members of the crew jump overboard."

Flames spread from the vessel to three sheds of the American Agricultural Chemical Company's docks but were quickly extinguished.

The fire boat John Kendall, spraying water on the drifting Transiter, hauled her in midstream as she neared a Wabash railway bridge.

contract. This clause the company has rejected.

Flynn said the statement was issued "merely as a statement of policy so that the general public may know the union's attitude" and that he had not been in communication with any official government agency.

Urges Immediate Action

The statement asserted that it was "imperative for the government to act at once. The strikers are just as anxious as the rest of the American people to get those ships built. But they cannot do so while stubborn company management demands the power to carry on a ceaseless battle against the union and its membership."

Plans of New Jersey draft boards to reclassify the strikers as available for immediate military service were halted today in an order telegraphed to state selective service headquarters at Trenton by Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, national director of selective service.

Hershey Delays Action

Registration will not be reclassified pending clarification of situation. Inform all local boards immediately," the telegram read.

The local announced simultaneously it had urged Hershey by telegraph to postpone the proposed action of local draft boards in reclassifying the strikers, adding that the "action is a barefaced attempt to use selective service as a strike breaking weapon and if carried through will deprive Kearny shipyards of essential defense workers."

Child Born After Death of Mother

NEW LISBON, Wis., Aug. 8 (AP) — A seven-pound baby boy, born yesterday as a result of an operation performed on his mother ten minutes after her death, was reported "healthy and fine" today.

The mother, Mrs. Jefferson Walden, 34, expected the baby's arrival nine days hence. She was stricken by an attack of heart disease Thursday.

Shortly after Mrs. Walden's death, Dr. Brand Starnes completed an attempt to save the baby. The operation was completed in one minute, but for an hour the doctor worked over the baby to start it breathing. Finally the child gasped, then wailed.

Saber Wounds Are Fatal to Budlong

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8 (AP) — Wealthy polo-playing Jack Budlong paid with his life for the fun he got out of taking bit parts in movies.

The 28-year-old heir of the late Milton J. Budlong, millionaire automobile manufacturer, died Tuesday of saber wounds suffered when he was thrown from his horse while playing a civil war battle scene.

A coroner's jury held today the death was accidental.

person said the "condition exists for such a development."

Later, he told newsmen that the effect of priorities and shortages of materials for civilian purposes would inevitably force more and more plants to close and that it might cause the unemployment of 2,000,000 men.

He said, however, he thought the unemployment would be largely temporary because the workers ultimately would be absorbed in defense production.

Two Couples Plan Two-Year Cruise

Ocean City People Get U. S. OK for Long Ocean Voyage

OCEAN CITY, Md., Aug. 8 (AP) — Two Ocean City couples with a yen for faraway places will set sail Sept. 1 in a 43-foot auxiliary sloop for a two-year cruise of the South Atlantic and Pacific.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harmon.

It took them four months to get the government's O. K. for their projected cruise through waters in which they might meet ships of belligerent nations, but everything is all set now.

Their boat, named the "Harm-Jack," was bought in Baltimore earlier this year, sailed here in two and a half days and is now on the ways, being overhauled for the voyage.

On Sept. 1, the Jacksons and the Harmonas plan to go out through the Ocean City inlet and steer southward toward the West Indies, the Virgin Islands and Rio.

After they have covered the South Atlantic, they will head through the inland waterways of South America to the Pacific ocean. Following their exploration of the Pacific, they'll head for the Dnieper and the Dnieper, now expanded to Kiev.

Indications are that the Germans reached Uman via the branch railroad which runs northward to the Kozatyn and which connects there with the western trunk line from Kiev. It was up that trunk road that the Nazis apparently reached Kiev to begin the great turning movement southward between the Dnieper and the Dnieper.

There seems no question that Russian retaliatory bombing of Berlin has begun. That challenges anew the Nazi statements that Russian air power has been shattered. Whether the Russians have sufficient long-range equipment to match the growing British air assault on Berlin and other German cities remains to be seen.

Russians in Trouble

While it is perhaps 300 miles from Kiev to the mouth of the Dnieper, airline, it is double that and more around the great southern loop of the river. And escape to the Dnieper will be a difficult operation for Russian forces already apparently cut off north and west of Uman as well as those still along battle front.

The greatest battle of this war of monster battles seems in full swing on the southern flank. Yet there seems no reasonable foundation for the Berlin assertion that Kiev also has been "encircled."

There seems no question that Russian retaliatory bombing of Berlin has begun. That challenges anew the Nazi statements that Russian air power has been shattered. Whether the Russians have sufficient long-range equipment to match the growing British air assault on Berlin and other German cities remains to be seen.

Threaten Bug Line

The gravity of the situation for Russian forces still holding the right flank of the Dnieper front is apparent on any map. At Uman the Germans are already far behind them and east of the northern arm of the Bug river. They threaten to turn the whole Bug line to the Black Sea before the Russians can reach it from the lower Dnieper for a new stand.

The Nazis say they have captured an army commander and 30,000 men in the Uman region. This would mean a serious break at that point to confuse the vast and difficult retreat which the Red armies in the southern Ukraine will have to attempt if the Uman and Byelava-Tsarkov flanking operations cannot be checked.

It now appears unquestionable that the whole force of Hitler's new offensive is being concentrated southward from the break-through toward Kiev. Hitler proclaimed that his aim was destruction of Red armies between the Dnieper and Dnieper to the Black Sea. At Uman, the Germans are already half way from the Kiev front to the Black Sea. Unless that Nazi thrust can be promptly contained, abandonment of Odessa, great Russian Black Sea port, cannot be long delayed in a race to reach the Dnieper before the whole Russian left flank is cut off from the rear.

South of Kiev the Dnieper makes

Red Fleet said the Germans also lost more than thirty transports, ten destroyers, three patrol boats, two monitors, two cutters and two trawlers. It pointed out that the Germans had been unable to transfer large warships into the Baltic.

Sailors of the Red navy were reported last night to have joined the army in heavy land fighting on the Estonian front and Soviet citizens throughout invaded territories were called upon by their government to intensify guerrilla warfare.

Red Navy Joins Army

A dispatch from the front reported that sailors from the Baltic fleet had recaptured a village after a three-day battle in their first land encounter with the Germans.

Facing superior numbers, the sailors were reported to have taken the village with a bayonet charge on one-thirds ratio between revenue and spending.

Yesterdays' communiqué reported that battles raged throughout the night in the directions of Kakismali, Smolensk, Bel Tsarkov and in Estonia. Kakismali is on the Karelian Isthmus about seventy-five miles northwest of Leningrad. Smolensk is before Moscow and Bel Tsarkov is south of Kiev.

All of these places have been reported as battle regions before, and the high command said there was no large scale action elsewhere.

Appeal to Population

The commander of the western front, Marshal Semeon K. Timoshenko and Vice Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, who is a member of the military council, issued an appeal to the population of German-occupied regions to intensify their guerrilla warfare.

Join partisan detachments, attack and exterminate enemy columns carrying gasoline, ammunition and provisions," the Soviet leaders urged. "Blow up bridges, cut telephone wires, burn buildings and forests in which Germans are hiding and let not a single ounce of food fall into the enemy's hands."

Help the Red army rout the Hitler dogs! The hour of victory is near! Direct all strength to annihilation of the enemy!"

Gregory Elinov, secretary of the Communist party in White Russia said several hundred guerrilla units fighting there had recaptured and held for some time five cities in occupied territory, forcing the Germans to increase the size of their garrisons and withdraw forces from the front.

The total number of guerrillas is estimated now to be in the scores of thousands.

Advices from Leningrad and Kiev, the major cities behind the northern and southern flanks of the front, said that life continued normal there although at a wartime pace.

A dispatch from Kiev said that the city had become a "real fortress of defense."

ted the wage demands to William N. Woods, production manager, said the walkout was not a union move or a demonstration against yesterday's collective bargaining action, which an independent union won, but "simply because we want more money."

The committee asked a general twenty per cent hourly wage increase over an undisclosed scale for all production workers and a seventy-five cent hourly base. The request was immediately rejected by Woods.

He said it would not be considered until the men returned to their jobs in the steel blade and welding departments. Woods added that Propeller Craft, the unaffiliated union which won the National Labor Relations Board election, was the proper agency to make a request.

The election was between Propeller Craft and the AFL International Association of Machinists. Officials of both unions said they had not sanctioned the walkout. The strikers refused to permit Propeller Craft representatives to handle their demands.

She jumped overboard and drowned.

Cut Gas Consumption By Proper Adjustment Of Motors, AAA Urges

With the spotlight on gasoline conservation along the Atlantic seaboard, where a shortage is threatened due to lack of tanker-transport facilities, F. Harry Rockwell, manager of the Western Maryland Motor Club, declared that motor fuel economy by motorists everywhere offers a sure way to cut operating costs.

Pointing to recent tests made by A.A.A. national headquarters with the cooperation of the United States Bureau of Standards, Rockwell said that they demonstrated that 14.7 per cent of the gasoline used represented sheer waste from one major cause alone, namely, failure to maintain the vehicle properly adjusted for fuel economy.

Applied to the 1940 consumption of gasoline nationally, some 22,000,000,000 gallons, the A.A.A. club officially added, it means that 3,240,000,000 gallons were wasted due to improperly adjusted cars. Improper driving practices also contributed to gasoline waste.

On the basis of the A.A.A. tests, Rockwell estimated that the average motorist can save $20 per year by proper adjustment of the car for fuel economy, adding that this would purchase enough gasoline for a trip of 2,000 miles.

"Based on the average prevailing price, the use of 14.7 per cent less gasoline by all motorists would mean a saving of $651,000,000, or gasoline enough for 60,000,000,000 additional miles," he concluded.

The Serious Menace Of Inflation

IT is a good thing that so much earnest attention is being given to the impending dangers of inflation. Its possibility has long been discussed in the press and several of the Washington columnists have for some time been dinging warnings about it. Steps are being taken in Washington to head off the danger.

Unfortunately many people, perhaps the great majority, do not seem to realize the seriousness of the situation, but it is to be hoped that they will do so and that they will lend co-operative aid toward minimizing the chances for sending prices on a dizzy upward spiral. As Mark Sullivan points out in his dispatch elsewhere on this page, so long as the psychology of fear is restrained, inflation may not reach the violent stage, but, as he also states, all the conditions tending to inflation exist right now.

Something must be done, of course, to meet the situation for it is not a thing of the distant future but is immediately at hand. In testifying before the Banking and Currency committee of the House of Representatives, Leon Henderson, price administrator, declared that the country is headed into serious inflation unless something is done about it without delay.

"It is interesting to note," says the New York Herald Tribune, "that Mr. Henderson in urging enactment of price-control legislation, stresses two aspects of the situation which are deliberately soft-pedaled in the pending bill, namely, farm prices and wages. He did not specifically urge the inclusion of these in the measure. But he pointed out that farm prices, along with food prices, are conspicuous for the fact that they have already advanced farther than at the corresponding stage of the World war inflation, while wages constitute 'the most volatile and dynamic element' in the price picture. Pay rolls, he showed, have risen to the highest point in the nation's history at a time when, because of defense demands, there is less and less to buy."

He defined this situation—increasing purchasing power coinciding with stationary or declining production of goods to buy—as true inflation.

Alliance with Reds A Dangerous Thing, Gen. Johnson Says

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Apparently the Russians are going to pay for the supplies we are to send them to "resist the aggressors." Maybe that is because, even under the broad terms of the Lease Lend bill, it is a little too raw to suggest that they are a nation "resisting aggression" in the sense of that bill—much less that they are fighting to "defend democracy everywhere."

We started out to help "brave little Finland" when she was defending her democracy and resisting aggression against this same Soviet Russia. Now she is against us. We with England and France, encouraged "democratic" Poland to her destruction by resisting the aggressors and an equal partner in the aggression turned out to be these same Reds under Comrade Joey Stalin. We were shocked and wrung our hands when one by one the ravaged and swallowed the Baltic republics. Now that he and his fellow thug Adolf, are tearing at each other's entrails over some dispute in the division of the spoils of civilization, who has the face to say that, in helping Stalin, we are defending against an aggressor or that, in helping to preserve the bloody tyranny of Soviet Russia, we are defending democracy?

Dangerous

In pure cold-blooded realism and, in view of the perils we have assumed elsewhere, it cannot be denied that it is to our advantage to have Hitler and Stalin tear each other's guts out, and the greater the mutual destruction of their strength, the better for us but in the name of sincerity and prudence, let us cast off all hypocrisy about this new alliance, let's be careful of what kind of aid we send that may be later used against us and above all, let's not marry this great, treacherous double-crossing international moral prostitute.

One of the reasons why the warm-minded men in this country and their British associates have been disappointed in their appeals to our people for overwhelming unity for immediate war, is the very transparent insincerity of some of their appeals—of which "defending the democracies" and "resisting the aggressors" are prime examples.

War of Empires

This war is, and from the start has been, a war of empires for world domination and control. Our part in it is to protect ourselves from being squeezed in the clash of vast conflicting ambitions. It might have been less slick and clever to have made this clear to our people from the start instead of sugaring them with idealistic slogans and sentimental mush. It might have been less clever, but it would have been much more honest and, as I believe, more effective for unity today.

Well, this Russian development and blind-pig alliance should clear up a lot of that fog and make the issues much more hard-boiled and plain. To that extent it may be a blessing in the end.

We Don't Have It

But we can no more afford to go to sleep with our thumb in Stalin's mouth than he could afford the same luxury with Hitler. It is said with a grand gesture that we are going to supply Stalin's armies—arsenal of democracy" and what not. We haven't enough for our own army, much less Britain's. The only practicable available supply route is across the Pacific. But it is to our advantage to build up a strong Soviet force in the Siberian maritime provinces? It was only a year ago that one of our chief worries was the threat of Russian air bases so close to our shores in the North Pacific. All these recent gestures of ours seem still to lack all the evidence of sincerity on the other.

A New Doctrine By Dr. Ezekiel

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

The biggest peace-time job facing the American people, according to Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser to the secretary of Agriculture, is the readjustment of our industrial structure to a peace-time basis. This is fairly obvious conclusion. One need not be an economist to realize that an industrial plant specialized and tremendously expanded to meet war conditions will present a very real problem when the war boom is over. That is why many sober-minded people advocate a policy of utilization of existing industrial plant to the full before adding new equipment, and the maintenance of peace-time business to the fullest extent consistent with adequate defense production.

The interesting phase of Dr. Ezekiel's treatment of the matter, however, is the course of action he advocates. His major recommendation was a modification of the tax policy so as to increase buying power and encourage investment in the development of new industries and new enterprises.

From such a source this is revolutionary doctrine, indeed. It sounds like it might have come from some muck-backed survivor of the horse-and-buggy era. For Dr. Ezekiel, recommends, is — or was — a leading champion of the prosperity of scar-

Today's GARDEN-GRAF

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Distributed by Central Press Association)

SPECIMEN TOMATOES IN SMALL AREAS

The home gardener who has only a small area to devote to tomatoes will get better results if the plants are supported by stakes rather than allowed to roam over the ground. The fruits will be larger, of a better color and will develop earlier.

Tomatoes should be pruned as they grow. Some gardeners prefer to train them to a single main stem while others prefer leaving two, three or even four of the strongest bottom branches to develop.

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph, keep the suckers pruned out, taking care not to break off the flowering stems which appear just at the base of the side shoots.

Tomatoes require lots of water and after obtaining considerable growth respond rapidly to feedings of manure water or applications of nitrate of soda, using a teaspoonful to a plant.

film debut in this picture. Others in the cast include J. Carroll Naish, Evelyn Brent, John Miljan and Victor Varconi.

Another feature, "Dance Hall," now showing at the Strand, tried the club finesse. This enabled West to cash immediately two clubs and his space 10, so exactly 4-Hearts got made.

Another declarer, after winning the diamond 10 finesse, led the spade 5 to the 9 and 10, giving up his sure loser. West made the worst possible return, his diamond J, enabling the Q and A to bring club discards, so that six-odd got scored.

Soundest play was where the diamonds were not finessed at all. After the opening spade trick and the three high trumps, the spade 9 was led. West was led to win, and was afraid to return a diamond, for fear that South might be blank in the suit, which would gratuitously give him two club discards. So West promptly cashed his club A, to be sure of one more trick, and the show was then over, South getting the rest of the tricks without ever finessing.

Your Week-End Lesson

Do you know why many expert players now employ ace-showing and other top-card-showing responses to original two-bids instead of those favored by the overwhelming majority of the great rank and file of pretty good players? Do you know what method of responding constitutes the other extreme in theory, and the reasons for it? Can you give example hands illustrating the value of these two conflicting theories?

Tydings Finds Many Do Not Appreciate Freedom We Enjoy

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 8 (AP)—

Senator Millard E. Tydings (D-Md.) said here that the United States would have to maintain its freedom in the same manner it was earned—by sweat and blood.

"Too many of us are inclined to take this country for granted—to feel that liberty such as we enjoy in this nation has always existed throughout the world," Senator Tydings told members of Maryland's 4-H clubs at their conference.

Asserting maintenance of liberty was a continuous battle, the Senator declared, "in Russia alone during the last six weeks more than 1,000 men have given their lives in freedom's cause."

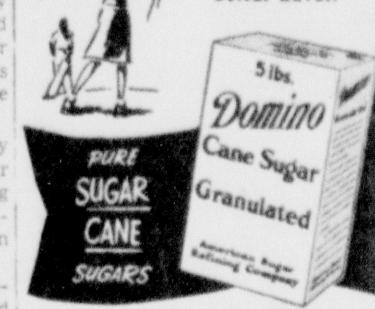

Senator Tydings said a basic economic change already can be found in the switch from spending in millions of dollars to spending in billions.

spoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup lemon juice.

Mix ingredients and crush until soft. Boil gently until thick and jelly-like. Stir frequently with wooden spoon. Pour into hot sterilized jars, seal immediately.

soft and then press through a sieve. Measure the pulp and for each cupful mix in 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 3 tablespoons orange juice and a speck of salt. Boil gently until thick.

For best results cook only 10 or so cups of jam mixture at a time in one kettle. Of course you can keep 2 kettles going.

Aunt Eliza bequeathed this jelly recipe to me and I am delighted to pass it on. Measure 3 cups of blackberries and add 1/2 cup cold water. Measure 2 cups gooseberries and 1/2 cup water in another kettle. Cook both kettles of berries until they are soft. Then pour them together into a jelly bag and let drip dry. This usually takes over night. Do no pressing or the jelly will be cloudy.

Measure the juice, add equal amount of sugar, and 1/4 cup lemon juice. Cook 4 cups of the jelly mixture in one pan at a time, until a portion jells when tested on a plate. Pour into sterilized jars and let stand over night. Seal with melted paraffin.

SOME MORE USEFUL CULINARY HINTS

To eliminate the mutton flavor from lamb, cook it with raisins.

If dried fruits become undesirably dry, due to improper storage they may be restored to packing house freshness by steaming in a colander when slices or wedges of ripe olives are added.

By using a clean sheet of plain wrapping paper to roll pies and pastry on, a lot of cleaning up can be avoided.

Newsprint paper is now being produced in Australia from local hardwood, according to the department of Commerce.

DICK TRACY—Happy Landing

Castle of Contentment

BY LOREN A. CARLETON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER NINETEEN

ANY EMBARRASSMENT Ylena had anticipated when she next saw Scott Hamilton was completely dissolved by his impersonal conduct. In the crisp frosty sunshine of the following morning he swerved up in the station wagon, along with white-haired, fat Aunt Daisy and two elderly strangers.

A confusion of greetings followed, an everyday "Hello" from Scott, simultaneous kissing and scolding from Aunt Daisy, cordial response by the old pair to Hamilton's introductions.

In a low voice he told the girl, "These are the people interested in your ranch."

Immediately he took charge, leading the exclaiming prospects about the grounds while Aunt Daisy began explanatory details to the dazed Ylena. They sat down on Indian stools and let the eastern sun shine on their backs. It was one of cool mornings, incongruous in the desert, with flowers blooming in air so nippy that it made frost of the breath.

"Now, darling," the bustling old lady directed, "just let Scott handle this. He's been leading them over your little place for the past week. They've recently lost their daughter and have to raise the grandmother. They adore the place and they should. It's perfect for a child, but it's perfect," she stressed, "because of your work. They have plenty of money. You're entitled to it." She patted the girl's hand with her own fat one and reiterated, "Let Scott handle it for you."

Scott did. Quickly.

In fact, the old man had his checkbook in his hand when they returned from their delighted inspection. "Both mother and I like the place just fine and we know," he told Ylena, "that little Julie will spend all her time out there in that playground."

Holding her head rigid, Ylena refused to look toward the playground she had built for Carlyle. Scott walked over and slipped his fingers about hers. He led her slightly aside while Aunt Daisy carried on an effervescent conversation with the enthusiastic buyers.

Scott informed the girl, "I asked them $17,500, your furniture included—Not St. Louis' antiques, naturally. I thought that way I'd be able to get $15,000 for you. But they didn't quibble, so it looks as if you're going to have to take the entire $17,500." He chuckled at her triumphant, yet stupefied look. "I told you your eyes would pop out—well?" he prodded after a moment's hesitation, "do you want it or not?"

"Oh, of course I want it! I was simply too busy subtracting to answer." Added to her delight over the sale was the pleasure of having made it without Tate's help. "Scott," she exclaimed rapturously, "do you realize what a profit I'm making?"

Scott laughed again. You're not tickled than they. But, let's get going, Ylena. There are papers to sign and you must get moved."

"I guess I'll go back to the Alvarez," she said with a giggle. They should be glad to see me. I haven't

YELLER CARROTS ARE THE RICHER IN VITAMINS

In the estimation of nutritionists carrots rank high because they are a good source of carotene, a substance which human beings can change to vitamin A in their bodies. In fact, carotene is what gives carrots their bright orange color, and the deeper the color, the better the source of vitamin A. Nutritionists recommend at least one serving of carrots a day. For, besides the carotene they contain, they are also a good source of calcium, and a fair source of riboflavin.

There are many attractive ways of serving this colorful and healthful vegetable. Home economics experts in the United States Department of Agriculture have labeled it a "regular vegetable-of-all-trades" in the kitchen, because it goes into stews, pot roasts, soups, chowders, and into vegetable combinations of all sorts. But that is not all.

Young, tender carrots, served raw, are one of the best salad pointers.

They not only add flavor and vitamins to the salad, but their bright color adds to the attractiveness of the dish. They may go into the salad in slender sticks, cubed or shredded. One favorite way of serving shredded raw carrots is in a gelatin salad in combination with pineapple or orange.

THE DAILY STORY
ELUSIVE MUSE

They Were Both Good, but They Didn't Know It—
Until They Decided To Trade Their Genius

By ALICE DRAKE
Stanley. I knocked around and learned the world and its people before I settled down to dad's publishing business and my own writing. Now look here, old man, I don't want you to take this as a personal slap at your writing ability—but this new novel you've cooked up for me—well, I think you won't do it." Rodney Payne, publisher and well-known writer himself, solemnly pushed the heavy sheet of typed pages back across his desk toward Stanley Fisher, his ex-college room mate. Hilda was there, too.

"You mean that this stuff—the stuff that's been written by me, I mean—hasn't got any good in it?" Hilda asked pointedly.

"Stanley is a little unsophisticated,

"You had an urge to create also, didn't you?" Hilda asked pointedly.

"You would have done your writing even if you had come right out of college and took this position."

"That's a horse of another color, my dear," Rodney pointed out.

"Stanley is a little unsophisticated;

"You mean that this stuff—the

your story. You can't possibly get the feeling, the drive to put bite into your words, by just reading dry facts out of books!"

"But . . . well, what do you suggest we do?"

"You've got money, so you won't have to do the work, but go to a mining town such as you're writing about. Live there on approximately the same scale as the people do. Mix with them, take notes, learn what they do and why they do them. Get motivation for their acts and their lives right from the source. Then come back here with your revamped novel and I'll see."

The Fishers exchanged another conspiratorial glance and Stanley did the final choosing.

"We'll try, old man—and thanks!"

Maybe the stimulation of such intimate contact will actually turn the corner for us!"

Some people use one-half their ingenuity to get into debt, and the other half to avoid paying it.

mining town in Pennsylvania, deals with strikes and mine disasters and the bare souls of primitive types of workers and their families, doesn't it?"

The facts are very authentic.

Rodney I can vouch for that!" Stanley reassured him. "I spent weeks in the library checking and rechecking!"

The publisher grunted. "That's the point. You don't, either of you, know a darned thing about the people who live and work and breed and die, the ones who love and hate and find simple emotional outlets in the locale you've picked for story I've pegged away at for more than a year, isn't any good." Innocent disbelief showed plainly in Stanley's unsophisticated eyes.

You can't tick it away in mothballs with the other six you wasted a good part of your time on, Stanley," Rodney said, with cold but friendly surgery. "Hilda's illustrations are not so good, either, if you want the unvarnished truth!"

Stanley and his wife exchanged defeated glances. "Well, I guess that's just about that, Rodney, the writer decided. "You're sure that you're not interested—even if I rewrite the story and Hilda polishes up her art work a little?"

Stanley is a genius, Rodney—Hilda said. "Even if he is a little slow getting started. He has the urge to create, and so have I. I just can't believe that this work isn't good enough to publish."

Rodney leaned back in his chair and uncomfortably took a frank appraisal of his friends. Stanley, with his boyish look, heavy-rimmed spectacles, Hilda, the aspiring painter, with her vast theoretical knowledge of art and her total ineptitude to create. A couple of babes in the artistic woods.

"I'm going to tell both of you something that maybe I wouldn't unless I knew you so well. I'm a rather successful writer myself—but I got my ability the hard way."

It was quite a few months later that he again was host to them in his office, and this time they were changed persons! The mountain air had done things to their appearances. But the manuscript and a bundle of new illustrations showed the most remarkable change.

"I was right—absolutely right!" Rodney exulted with a relieved feeling after he had skimmed through the novel and peered at each of the submitted illustrations. "This is really inspired writing, Stanley—and Hilda, I didn't know that you could turn out such pointed work! These are little gems!"

"But I didn't, Rodney," Hilda refused to accept credit. "Stanley did the illustrations this time, and I did the writing!"

"You what? Kindly say that over again slowly!"

"Your plan was wonderful, but accident stepped in to pin down that muse of ours, Rodney. We were bored during the long evenings in that small town, and Stanley discovered that he could paint—and now he is much more talented than I ever was."

"And you, I suppose, retaliated by trying your hand at writing, Hilda?"

The woman laughed but nodded assent. "It sounds absolutely demented—but that's the way it turned out. I never knew that I had a knack for writing because I never had tried it. I thought I was a born painter!"

"I'm buying the novel—but don't tell anyone about what you've just told me. They'd think I was crazy, too!"

Romney Home-Coming Parade Will Be Held This Afternoon

Frostburg School Is Being Prepared For Fall Opening

Commissioners and School Board Supervising Driveway Resurfacing

FROSTBURG, Aug. 8—Frostburg's new high school, which has been in use since February 6, is undergoing a thorough house cleaning in preparation for the opening of school in September. The custodians of the building have completed the work of sanding and waxing all the floors in the building. Because of the unfinished condition of the grounds surrounding the school during the past year, much grit and dirt was carried into the building. The laying of a new concrete plaza in front of the main entrance will eliminate this condition and prevent damage to the floors by sand and dirt carried on the shoes of the pupils.

The county commissioners and school board are supervising the resurfacing of the driveway to the building from Eckhart Flat. This work will be finished in a few weeks and make the building more accessible, particularly in winter weather. A huge grading machine has been operating all week, shifting tons of dirt as a first step in the landscaping program, which, when completed, will provide the building with a setting as attractive as the building itself.

The landscaping scheme will provide an athletic field in front of the building, the field to occupy the center of a bowl with seating capacity for spectators on the sides and ends.

Water Shortage May Develop In Mt. Savage

Water in Cistern Has Dropped to Low Level of Four Feet

MT. SAVAGE, Aug. 8—The water in the cistern which is the source of supply for the O'Toole water line has dropped to the extremely low level of four feet in the past week, due to the absence of rain in this area. A number of springs run into the cistern but at this time they are not adequate to fill it to normal level.

The cistern is equipped with an electric pump and when the water was low in previous years it could be pumped from a deep well nearby. However, at present the pump is not in working condition and no plans have made to repair it.

In Use Thirty Years

The water line has been in use nearly thirty years. The late Clinton Uhl, former State Roads Commissioner, organized a company which bought the water rights and installed the line. Until recently the cistern has been one of the best sources of water in the community and the twenty-eight families on the line have never been without water. All users of water from this source have been requested to avoid unnecessary waste.

If the supply is not replenished and the present dry weather continues, there is danger of the supply being exhausted. In such a case the situation would be very bad at the present time, because the only other water source that could be conveniently used is the Old Row spring which was sealed by order of the Health Department several weeks ago, as a result of the typhoid epidemic which was supposedly caused by germs in this water.

Is Now Chlorinated

A chlorine tank was installed in the cistern two weeks ago and the water is thoroughly purified.

Due to the new cistern and the added force in the Church Hill district, the water users on the Mt. Savage Water Company line have had an adequate supply of water with no shortage during the dry spell. This company is owned by William Sherman, Cumberland.

The present head of the O'Toole Water line is Edward Farrell.

Services Are Held In Keyser for Thomas Stanley

The Rev. J. H. Brown, Pastor of Grace Methodist Church Officials

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 8.—The Board of Education met last night and considered items of business connected with the opening of schools, which will probably take place on Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Three vacancies in the faculty are to be filled, two in the high school teaching force, and one in the third grade. These vacancies were caused by the resignations of Charles O. Burns, Jr., Mrs. Harvey Zeigler and Miss Mary Miller.

Candidates were chosen last night to take the places of the instructors just named, but names of the successful aspirants cannot be announced until confirmations are received from them. It is thought that a fourth teacher, a music instructor, might be chosen later, provided such a position is created by the local board.

D. R. Goodwin, Sr., began serving as secretary of the board, succeeding H. Somers Fischer who was made treasurer of the board. Grade teachers are pleased with the new state law that prescribes a minimum wage of $1,000 per year for all such instructors. The salary previously paid in Hyndman to these teachers was $900 for a nine-months school year. The same statute requires a minimum salary of $1,200 a year to be paid to high school instructors.

The Deep Creek Baptist congregation has been the recipient of a beautiful church bell, Rev. William B. Orndorff, pastor, announced. Rev. Orndorff was recently advised by Walter W. Wittig, retired baker of Frostburg and summer resident of the Lake section, that he had a twenty-nine inch alloy-silver and copper bell which would be appropriate for the new tower built to the church last summer.

The bell was installed this week and was rung for the first time on its evening at a Baptist rally. Mr.

Lack of Buying Support Causes Irregular Prices in the Market

Prospects of Still Higher Taxes Unsettle the List

By BERNARD S. OHARA

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Buying support wavered in today's stock market and, on average, it was the tenth successive session in which the list had been unable to progress.

Price variations were exceptional. It was during the greater part of the proceedings but some selling chopped up in the final hour, particularly in oils, and lower trends were the rule at the close.

Speculative uneasiness revived, brokers said, when Treasury Secretary Morgenthau insisted before a Senate committee that the present tax bill be boosted substantially and bases broadened to add 2,000,000 new taxpayers.

The Associated Press composite of sixty stocks ended with losses of 2 of a point at 43.7. This barometer has not posted a plus sign since July 28. Of 741 issues traded, 396 were down, 152 up and 133 unchanged. Dealings, sluggish most of the time, picked up near the finish and transfers totalled $53,680 shares compared with 497,120 Thursday. It was the second smallest turnover for a full day since July 18.

Aside from the tax spectre, brokers still were handicapped, brokers said, by conflicting war bulletins and fears of bearish developments in the far east.

Among losers of one to around two points were Standard Oil (N.J.), Texas Corp., Westinghouse, U. S. Gypsum, Lockheed, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft and Glenn Martin.

Modest improvement was retained by U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, Pan American Railways, du Pont, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and Eastman Kodak.

Low-priced rails took most of the play in the bond market, rising fractions to a point or more while other groups moved indecisively in quiet trading.

Volume expanded to $8,050,300, par value, the best in more than a week, and compared with $7,075,000 on Thursday. The five major groups in the Associated Press averages showed only minor changes either way.

Pirate Ship, Long Shot, Wins Fairgo Feature

Martinez Boosts Lead over Scocca In Jockey Chase

Total of $111,912 Wagered on Fourth Day of Local Meeting

Form players fared better during the fourth day of the Cumberland Fair Association's ten-day race meeting yesterday with nearly 10,000 persons wagering a total of $111,912 on the program of seven running races and one steeplechase.

Pirate Ship, owned by Miss E. Miller and ridden by A. F. Martinez, breezed home in the sixth and feature event, the Cumberland Aerie Fraternal Order of Elks purse. O. S. Jennings' Rhodium was second with Mrs. D. Sheas Vestale third. Pirate Ship returned $39.40 to win, $16.70 to place and $6.40 to show.

Solo Dash, the favorite, took the Shoer Restaurant purse, second race on the card, while Flying Falcon, second choice in the betting, finished in front in the Cumberland Brewing Company Old Export steeplechase.

Bandleader Paul Whiteman, in Cumberland with his orchestra yesterday, was among the spectators and after being introduced by Major Harry Irvine, presented a trophy to John Booley, Jr., who's High Bud copped the Paul Whiteman purse, No. 4 on the program.

Martinez Leads

Cautious B. live to one shot, won the Wilson Hardware purse, seventh race on the slate, and paid $13.80, $6.80 and $5.40.

Jockey Martinez extended his lead over Donna Scocca in the race for riding honors when he brought in two winners and one show horse to increase his total number of points to forty-two for the four days. Scocca was astride one winner and one third-placer and now has thirty-six points.

Carmada, ridden by A. Vessell, and So Fast, piloted by E. Delpino, ran a dead heat in the first race with Prison Ship third. So Fast led during the first quarter but gave way to Olympian midway in the race. Going into the stretch, Carmada and So Fast pulled ahead and crossed the wire neck-and-neck.

It was the first dead heat of the current session with Carmada returning $4.90 to win, $3.80 to place and $5.40 to show. So Fast $10.60 to win, $4.90 to place and $9.10 to show. Prison Ship paid $5.90. The time for the five furlongs was 56.4 seconds.

Newsreel Pictures Taken

The second race, the Shoer Restaurant, went to the favored Solo Dash with Secreta second and Rhythymical third. Following the race, Bill Keegan presented a trophy to the owner of Solo Dash and congratulated Jockey Scocca, who was aboard the winner.

Solo Dash paid $4.80, $3.40 and $2.80, Secreta $4.50 and $3.30 and Rhythymical $4.00. The final double payoff for $12 was Carmada and Solo Dash, $13.50, and So Fast and Solo Dash, $70.

Secreta broke on top and remained ahead until the stretch when Solo Dash, ably ridden by Scocca, closed the gap and then went to the front to grab the winner's share of the purse.

Immediately after the running of the second race, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer newsreel photographer and his equipment were escorted through the crowd to the judges stand. Pictures taken at the local oval will be shown here, probably next week.

Taking the lead at the fourteenth jump, Flying Falcon, owned by John Booley, Jr., romped to victory in the Old Export steeplechase to pay $6.40, $2.70 and $3.20. War Post, the favorite, broke on top and for eleven jumps set the pace. Rising Sun then took over the No. 1 slot but its day was short with Flying Falcon soon forging to the front. War Post was second and Rising Sun third.

Flying Falcon's time was 3:30, a new record for the two-mile steeplechase course. The old mark was 3:32 set by War Chat last Wednesday.

Following the race, Col. Nelson Russler presented the Old Export trophy to Owner Booley, who also trains Flying Falcon, and congratulated Jockey N. Brooks.

Coming up on the outside on the final turn, John Booley, Jr.'s High Bud, co-favorite with Navigation won the fourth—the Paul Whiteman purse named in honor of the famous bandleader.

Scocca's Flame was second and Roving Eye third. High Bud's payoff was $8.20, $4.90 and $3.70 while Scarlet Flame returned $7.60 and $5.60 and Roving Eye $5.00.

Mr. Whiteman, following the race, presented a trophy to Booley and congratulated Jockey Dufford. Mr. Whiteman and his party posed for newsreel pictures on the platform opposite the grandstand.

Sammy Palumbo guided Mardi Gras, the favorite to victory in the fifth. Palumbo kept Mardi Gras second behind Satin Royce most of the way and then in the stretch called on the Jack Goldberg entry's reserve.

Mardi Gras returned $7.70, $3.50 and $2.90. Satin Royce, which placed $3.90 and $3.20 while Satin Marie, third under the wire, rewarded with $1.80. The time for the six and one-half furlongs was 1:22.2.

Long Shot Wins Sixth

An 18 to 1 shot in the betting, Pirate Ship, rebounded home in the sixth—the Cumberland Aerie Fraternal Order of Eagles purse—(Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Fair for October Being Considered By Directors Here

Divorcing Exhibits from Races, Starting in 1942, Is Favored

Directors of the Cumberland Fair Association, Inc., have under consideration a plan to divorce the races from the agricultural, horticultural, livestock, poultry and pet stock exhibits, effective in 1942, it was learned yesterday.

Under the proposed setup the ten-day race meeting will be held in August as at present while the exhibits will not be staged until October to enable farmers to display a better quality of produce following the full harvest.

Since the fairgrounds were built in 1924, the exhibits have been staged during the race meet and the interest in the displays has lagged because those who go to Fairgo pass up the potatoes, peas and porkers to spend the time playing the ponies.

Before the local racing plant was built, the fair was held annually in the old frame armory which stood on the site now occupied by the state armory on South Centre street.

It is reported that a majority of exhibitors favor the change of staging the fair in October in the halls at Fairgo.

A similar arrangement is now in effect in Hagerstown where ten days of racing is held in July while the fair with its many fine exhibits is not staged until September. This year the Hagerstown fair is scheduled for September 23 to 27.

Maryland Hunters to Report Game Kill or Pay Fine

Offenders Must Pay $2 and Costs; Provision Made for Lost Licenses

A new state law, patterned after one now in effect in the State of Pennsylvania, specifies that any licensee who fails to report the amount of game birds or animals taken during the Maryland hunting season to the Maryland State Inland Game and Fish Commission, shall be sentenced to a fine of $2 and costs for prosecution.

Heretofore the state game warden and regional wardens and deputies requested hunters to file a report of game killed by them but many sportsmen failed to cooperate, hence the passage of a law with teeth.

The purpose of the report is for the game census to determine the amount of wild life killed during the season so that plans may be made for restocking in the future.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, said that the fine and costs in such cases must be paid before a hunting license is issued for the succeeding season.

The state commission also has made provision for the replacing of hunting licenses and tags in case they are lost. Those losing same may make affidavit as to the date of issuance, number, description, give the name of clerk or person who issued said license and with this information the commission is authorized to issue a duplicate hunting license or tag for a fee of fifty per cent of the original cost, not to exceed seventy-five cents.

This information was received yesterday by the clerk of the court's office.

Four hundred and twenty county hunting licenses, costing $1.25 each and 100 statewide license at $5.25 each already have been issued here for the 1941 hunting season. Fishing licenses to date number 4,283, a new high for Allegany county.

And so she did—heartily.

Ulbig, who said he was a newspaper man, explained that he was bitten on top of the left hand by an irritated monkey at Fairgo. The animal belonged to a friend, he added.

The victim was discharged from the hospital after one skin clip was used to close the wound.
